HORSES AT GRAND RAPIDS.

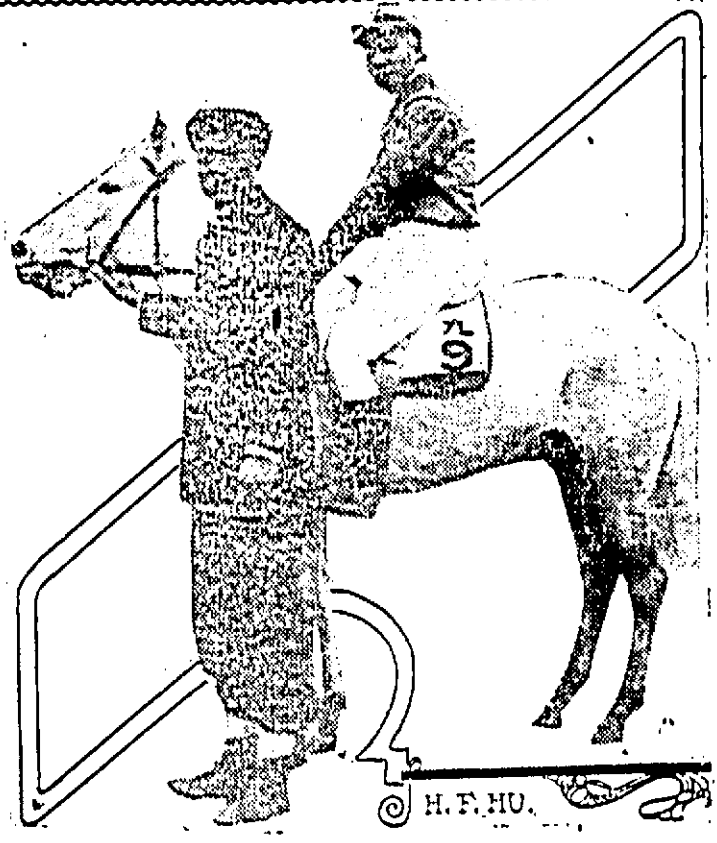

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 25.—All the best known horses following the big circuit this summer are at Grand Rapids for the opening today of the four-day Grand Circuit race meeting. The feature of the week, the $10,000 Furniture Manufacturers' purse for 2:12 class trotters, will be raced tomorrow and a large and high class field is expected to have the starter to contest for the rich prize.

WESTERN POWER BOAT REGATTA.

Peoria, Ill., July 25.—Speedy motor boats from New York and several other Eastern points, together with the fleetest craft of the kind to be found throughout this section of the country, are taking part in the third annual regatta of the Western Power Boat Association which begins on the lake here today and will continue over tomorrow. Interest in the regatta is increased by the fact that the winners may attempt to defend America's power boat cup against the British challenger in the races on Long Island Sound next fall.

HORSE SHOW AT LONG BRANCH.

Long Branch, N. J., July 25.—Many famous winners of the show ring will be exhibited to horse admirers at the eleventh annual exhibition of the Monmouth County Horse Show association, which is to open at Hollywood Park tomorrow. Fifty-five classes are FAMOUS CHINESE JOCKEY.

H. F. Hu, the first Chinese gentleman jockey who won the first Chinese Race Meeting.

The "awakening of China" has received another illustration. At the first Gynkhanu meeting of the International Recreation club, which occurred at Kiangsu, Shanghai, China, recently, Mr. H. F. Hu, one of several Chinese gentleman riders, who took part in the meeting was among the winners. It is said that he rode a capital race. He will be seen by the picture, Mr. Hu uses the American carded, with the addition of four running races, one each day of the show, for money prizes, with polo ponies and galloways as the contenders. In addition to the sporting and fashionable folk of the Long Branch colony, many other members of the smart sets of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other places will see the events. The array of cups and prizes offered is unusually large. Among those offering special prizes are Senator C. W. Watson, Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Paul A. Sorg and S. P. Guggenheime.

MAY FIGURE IN IMPORTANT TRADE.

Chicago, Ill.—There are constant rumors that the Boston Americans are going to put through a deal with Comiskey's White Sox which will materially strengthen the Boston organization. It is a known fact that since Jake Stahl went into the bank-lark business and forsook the diamond, John Taylor has been up against it for a suitable man to hold down the initial sack. In addition to this he wants to strengthen his battery and rumor has it that he is going to trade Catcher Carrigan and Pitcher Cicotte, and possibly infielder Wagner for two White Sox men, Pitcher Scott and Catcher Payne. Zelder and Corban are two other of Comiskey's men named in the trade, but it is hardly likely that Comiskey would consent to passing up either of these.

ASQUITH'S POSITION.

Never in the history of the English Parliament has a premier faced such a problem as now confronts Minister Asquith. The scene yesterday in the House of Commons is a fair example of what difficulties he must face and overcome before the actual will of the throne and of the people is firmly established. In the olden days such a disorder might have led to a civil revolution but in this day and age the actual trouble and violence was averted and took only the form of personal abuse and derision of the Prime Minister of the English Kingdom. Asquith represents the government. He is the veritable mouthpiece of the King and House of Lords. His word should be received with attention and consideration but evidently the present generation of Englishmen are lacking in appreciation of the divine right of kings and seek the more republican methods of demonstrating however, it is safe to say that Asquith will carry his point in the end and matters will adjust themselves to suit the will of the majority without any serious disturbances.

THE LIGHTING QUESTION.

The council last evening saw it to turn down the proposition regarding the lighting of the streets with the so-called Art lights. Perhaps they had good and sufficient reasons for so doing but it looks to an outsider as though the measure was led up to slaughter without due consideration. The matter was one in which the majority of the business men were most interested. It was a matter which should not have been disposed of without weighing and carefully considering it. The committee which had made the investigation of conditions in other cities found that the proposition offered to Janesville was one of the best that could be obtained anywhere. The council might have had good and sufficient reasons for turning the proposition down, but it is a disappointment to the gentlemen who have given their time and money to the investigation and to the citizens in general.

INVESTIGATIONS.

When all is said and done, the present investigations of the so-called trusts by congress, will not really amount to much. Steel, sugar, senatorial elections, all have come in for their share of the general probe which has characterized the present congress. The probe into the past, the present and the future conditions of the "big interests" will not seriously affect their business and while it will doubtless cause some readjustments of the arrangements of the concerns affected but it will not be permanent. However, it makes most excellent campaign documents for the members of both houses of congress to go before the people for re-election.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

In tending the farewell reception to Reverend James McGinnity who leaves Janesville after many years of service in St. Patrick's parish to take charge of the Catholic church at Milton Junction, his services to the parish and to the city were recognized. "Father James" as he has been lovingly known by his parishioners and others not members of his church even, -- done his work honestly and faithfully. The purse which was tendered him by his friends contained more than the thousand odd dollars it contained--it carried with it the love and gratitude of the donors who wish him success in his work.

CHINA AWAKES.

For centuries China has subserviently played the role of prompt payer of indemnities to occidental powers whenever they chose to make out a case of indebtedness. Sometimes the claims have been justified. Again they have not. But in any case there has been only one safe course for the Middle Kingdom. Revolutionary changes in the empire, affecting its ideals, are now under way. A multitudinous people are evidently deciding they will not be bullied and plundered as in the past. Consequently an army is coming into being, and the warrior hereafter is to have a higher social and political rank. As a sign of this accentuated national consciousness and dignity and a new disposition to be reckoned with, China's demand for an indemnity from Mexico is important. Time was when the slaughter of 300 Chinese, if in the most insignificant country of the world, would not have stirred Peking officials to even an informal protest. But now Mexico is to be asked to pay heavy damages, and the message is to be conveyed by a deputation travelling on a naval vessel. Not that such choice vessel has any hidden meaning necessarily. Nevertheless, China thinks that it may be well to let the world know that old days of supine acceptance of any insult and injustice are past, and that the new China has decided to be self-assertive. Mexico, of course, troubled though she is with domestic trials, will hardly evade restitution and apology.

Janesville had its military celebration on July 4th. Chicago is having its celebration this week and later in the fall the state board of agriculture plan for a similar gathering of soldiers in Milwaukee. Perhaps Chicago did not copy after Janesville but anyway this city set the pace.

Since army officers are retired if they are cross-grained and ill natured the smile that went from off now appears on all their faces. Just like "Sunny Jim" or Taft.

No one has yet figured out just the number of foolish laws that were enacted in Madison this past six months.

Mr. Taft is wondering how the Bull Run Refugees ever got back to Washington after his experience with the Virginia mud.

When the cholera germ was discovered visiting in New York no one extended the glad hand of welcome.

Opponents to reciprocity in the Senate made noise out of all proportion to their numbers.

Fountain pens at forty pence might settle the Bullinger-Roosevelt dispute very nicely.

Canada is going to be one of those favorite little sisters.

President Taft has one more large feather in his cap.

PRESS COMMENT.

Chicago Examiner: The women of the country spend nine billion dollars of the ten billions annually paid out for clothing, rent and food. In making this statement the new Department of Home Economics of the University of Wisconsin, points out that in any other phase of life the persons intrusted with such expenditures would be required to undergo a rigid training.

Times Have Changed. Prospect Journal: Public opinion and feelings have changed radically toward the President, and he has done much to deserve this favorable change. He is now justly rewarded by enlightened progressives as a very good all-around progressive, as a sincere, high-minded statesman, a faithful, courageous public servant. And these progressives are not confined to the republican party. Democrats and independents are openly expressing admiration for Mr. Taft. He is the President of all the people.

Men Who Count. Dayton (Iowa) Times: The people used to exist for the railways--at least so far as anyone could judge by their actions that was the point of view of the transportation chiefs. Now, however, a great light is breaking, and the Chicago Great Western, for instance, is instructing its station agents "to cultivate the farmers." It is added that a pleasant greeting, a chat over the fence or a wave of the hand in passing may mean a shipment, and it is shipments the railway is after.

Wise Words of Advice. Green Bay Gazette: State Forester

Griffith, who has just returned to Madison, reports that the forests in the northern section of the state are very dry. As a result of this condition existing it will be necessary for campers and picnickers to take more precaution when camp fires are started.

Setting the Record.

Rockford Register-Gazette: According to the cartoons the romantics who are trying to save the neck of the Lorimer interests have Baron Munchausen, Aesop and Ananias backed off the map as too amiable.

Might Help Some.

Oshkosh Northwestern: In view of the fact that the case of Senator Stephenson has at last reached the "concrete" stage at Washington, the senator should draw on his famous dairy herd and distribute a few more prize cows at the national capital.

A Sure Winner.

Milwaukee Journal: The next thing we know someone will come along with a scheme to run the government without taxes and the voters will elect him.

UNCLE WALT THE POET PHILOSOPHER

(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.)
By WALT MASON.

When first chauntiquas made their bid for public favor and support, I liked the sort of work they did, and to their meetings would expect to go. Then they were CHAUNTIQUAS. They were a sort of a mixed bag, and some old chap with whiskers long would start a lot of preach. No friends had jumped into the game, and factors then were rightly scorned; the speakers of woe men of mine--the sort of lame that's fairly earned. But now I have some weary sighs, when to chauntiquas tents I go, for circus features the eyes; it's like a dog and pony show. A dame returned from British Jells where she puts in a bunch of years, stands up before the crowd and wails, and gets applause that should be given. The fake explorer stands and bores the crowd with stories of the pole; the windy politician roars a long and useless rhapsody. The latter day Chauntiquas plans embrace the has been of all shores; ex-governors and also rans, and all varieties of bors. The program of next year, nothink, will play up all the standard franks; the jugglers and glass eating glunks, and bearded dames and tattooed creeks.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

ONCE HE WAS A MAN.
This is a story about one who at a time was a real man.

Now he is a multimillionaire. He began his business life without a dollar. If, as some one has remarked, "a man is worth only $2 from the shoulders down and $20 a day from the shoulders up" this man at first was worth $2 a day. Then he began to work with his head--"from his shoulders up."

When he began to work with his head he learned how to work others. He learned how to "grow" money. Presently he cornered some special privileges that the man who works from his shoulders down never gets. He began to get rich quick.

The man's wife? He married her when he began to work with his head. She was a fine girl, but, like himself, poor. She worked hard, denying herself. She saved and saved and lost her beauty. What matter? He and she would enjoy their prosperity together.

Then this man became a thing. He looked into the face of his wife and saw that her beauty was faded. She did the best she could to please him, but the old charm was gone. And one day this creature in garments of a man happened to meet a girl who was arful, fascinating and pretty. She looked at him and smiled. He was hypnotized and undone. He would have this girl. He could buy her.

The thing in trousers sent his lawyers to the faded wife. They offered her much money. They told her plainly her husband had no further use for her. He stayed away from home. The wife knew that he was with the girl.

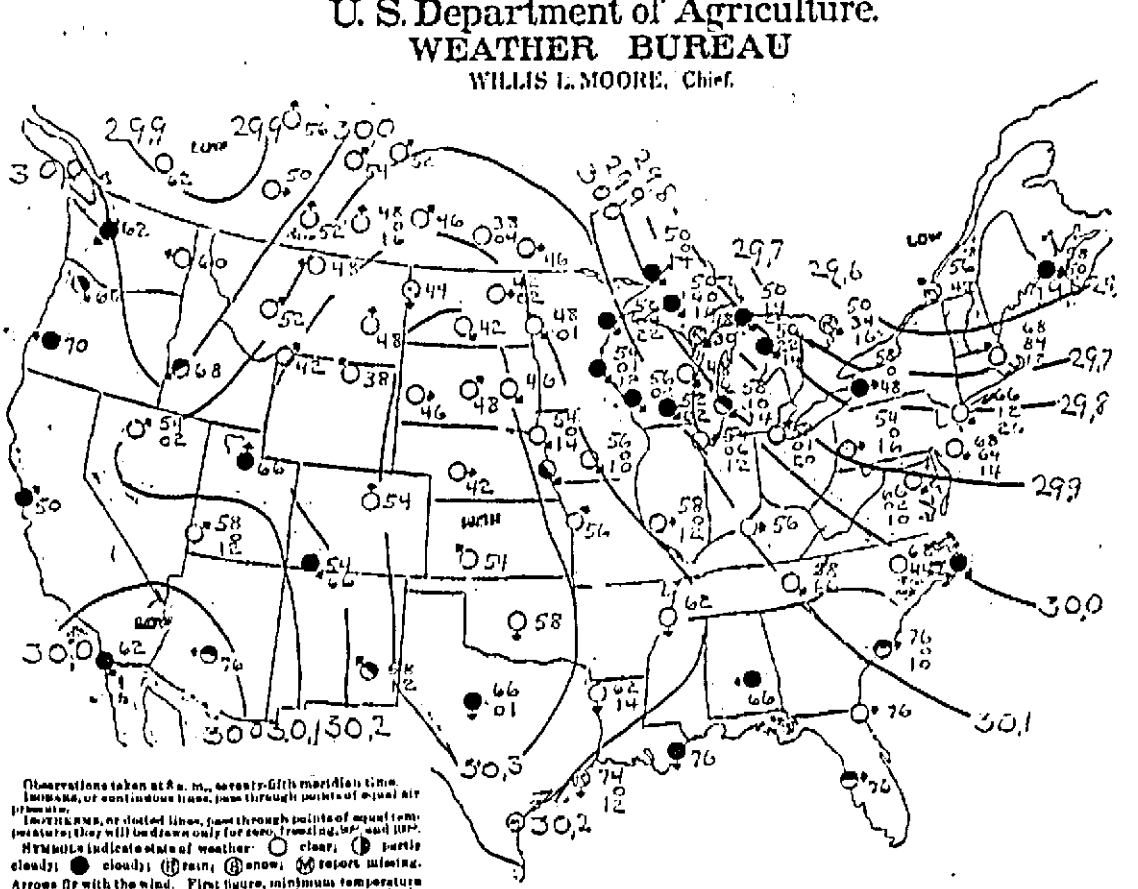

And then-- Desperate, the old wife sued for divorce. There was a sensation and scandal. The newspapers made much of the trial. Finally the multimillionaire married the girl, and they went to Europe. Now almost every day the old wife cries, they say.

Who was this thing with much money and no soul? I cannot just name him. He is a sort of composite production. However, if you will turn to the commercial reports of Dun's or Bradstreet's and you can find the list of men with millions I quite believe you will find his name.

Preposterous. "It is my policy," said the impulsive young candidate, "to send every law breaker and every law evader to jail."

"Good heavens," exclaimed a prominent citizen. "This fool wants to lock up the entire community."--Chicago Record-Herald.

Candor. If anything in my conversation has merited your regard, I think it must be the openness and freedom with which I commonly express my sentiments. You are too wise a man not to know that such freedom is not without its use.--Burke.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The storm that was over the lake region yesterday has now reached the St. Lawrence valley. It was attended by rains throughout the lake region and along the Atlantic coast from Maine to North Carolina. High winds prevailed yesterday on the lower lakes, the following high velocities being reported: Buffalo, 72 miles per hour; Toledo, 60; New York, 48; Pittsburgh, 42; Grand Haven, 40. The cool wave following the storm prevails in the lake region and throughout the northwest. It will continue cool today and tonight, but it will be quite warm up Wednesday. Fair.

The Real Truth.

"When a man looks indignant and says he's discouraged," remarked Uncle Eben, "it's more always only a polite way of owning up to hisse' dat he's gittin' lazy."

Waster of Time Never Welcome. Do you know why you are not welcome? Remember that Lavater said: "The great rule of moral conduct is, next to God, to respect time."

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

By A. W. Macy.

CHARLES II AND HIS DOG.

Charles II, King of England, was a great lover of dogs, and always kept several of them about him as pets. On one occasion he was quite distracted by the disappearance of one of his favorites. An advertisement prepared by one of his servants was posted, but it did not have the desired effect. So Charles tried his hand, with this result:

"We must call upon you again for a Black Dog between a Greyhound and a Spaniel, no white about him only a streak on his breast and his Tassel a little bobbed. It is His Majesty's own Dog, and doubtless was stolen, for the Dog was not born nor bred in England, and would never forsake his Master. Whoever finds him may acquaint any at Whitehall, for the Dog was better known at Court than those who stole him: Will they never leave robbing His Majesty? Must he not keep a Dog? This Dog's place though better than some imagine, is the only place which nobody offer to beg."

Will Aid The Work

The work of the collectors for the "zette" can be very greatly assisted if the patrons of the paper will have their payments ready at the time the collector calls. Most of our friends have assisted nicely in this connection and their promptness is appreciated. With several hundred calls to make each month, it is no small task and where it is necessary to make several return calls, the work is greatly increased. The collectors make the rounds of the city on the following dates or near those dates: BUSINESS SECTION--3-10, FIRST WARD--1-3, SECOND WARD--1-12, THIRD WARD--12-16, FOURTH WARD--1-12, FIFTH WARD--1-3. CELOTT DRUNK GETS LONG TERM AT THE COUNTY JAIL

Joe McDonald of Deloit, committed for Ten Days With Fine of $20 and Costs or Sixty Days.

Additional.

Committed to the county jail for the same offense, drunk and disorderly, from Judge Reaw's court in Deloit, for the third time since April 1, Joe McDonald arrived here last night to begin a ten day term at the end of which he is to pay a fine of $20 and costs or $23.25, or stay at the county jail for an additional sixty days. Since this was McDonald's third offense the Deloit court was not disposed to leniency and the follower of linealness will be given plenty of time to repeat of excessive indulgence.

Ed. Mehta was committed to the county jail from the Deloit court yesterday in default of payment of $2 and costs or $2.45, for twenty days on a drunkenness charge.

DES VOIGN GIVEN PRISON SENTENCE OF SIX MONTHS

Man Accused of Obtaining Money By False Pretenses Pleaded Guilty Today and Was Sent To State Penitentiary.

Through his attorney John L. Fisher Walter Des Voign, accused of obtaining money by false pretenses, pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning and was sentenced by Judge C. L. Fifield to six months at hard labor in the state prison at Waupun. Mr. Fisher, in asking sentence for his client, stated that Des Voign had at one time been confined in an insane asylum, and probably was, under the influence of liquor, slightly deranged when he passed the worthless check. Des Voign later stated that he did not know that his mental condition affected the case.

Des Voign was arrested Thursday evening, June 23, just a short time after he had purchased a ticket to Evansville and but a few hours after he had given Leslie J. Davis, a garage man of this city, a check on the "Dixie State National Bank" of Dixon, Ill., for five dollars. Des Voign was identified by Davis as the man to whom he had given the money, but up until a few days ago the prisoner stoutly maintained his innocence. During the preliminary examination, Des Voign conducted his own case. Mr. Fisher was appointed to act as his attorney during the trial by Judge Fifield.

NEW ASST. PASTOR AT ST. PATRICK'S

Rev. Thomas Jankowsky of Milwaukee Has Arrived To Take the Place of Father James McGinnity.

Rev. Thomas Jankowsky, of Milwaukee, has been selected as assistant pastor of St. Patrick's church in place of Father McGinnity, who leaves today to assume his duties in the parish at Milton Junction.

Father Jankowsky is only twenty-eight years of age and comes highly recommended from St. Cyril's parish Milwaukee, where he has served for three years. He was born at St. Charles, Pennsylvania, and moved with his parents to the city of Milwaukee, twenty years ago, where his parents still live and where he received his education in the schools and colleges at that place. His collegiate training was begun at Marquette college and completed at St. Francis Seminary and he was ordained at the latter place three years ago.

After his experience at his former place of duty he is well fitted to assume the duties at St. Patrick's parish and he hopes that he may have the hearty co-operation of the people in order to try at least to fill the vacancy caused by the transfer of Father James. He has assumed his new duties and that his parishioners are ready to join with him in making his new field a pleasant one was shown by the cordial reception given him last night.

WRIGHT ON TRIAL FOR DRUNKENNESS

Christ. Wright, Aged Carriage Worker, Tried in Municipal Court This Afternoon.

Christ. Wright, once prosperous business man of this city, was given a trial in municipal court this afternoon at four o'clock on the charge of drunkenness. Wright was arraigned this morning but pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Wright was picked up this morning about two o'clock by Officer Patrick Fleming and taken to the jail. In making his rounds Night Watchman Dennis McGinnley found the man lying on the river bank at the foot of Dodge street, with his feet in the water.

Moans attracted his attention to the place and securing Officer Fleming they lifted the man out of the water. It is thought that he had been drinking and became befuddled and wandered to the water's edge.

The man was stiff and exhausted from his experience. His carriage shop on South River street, was found unlocked with the key in the door.

The place was inspected and it was apparent the man, who is quite aged, had gone away and forgotten to lock the door. He told an officer this morning that he had gone to the river to take a bath, not intending to remove his clothes.

Kelly Sentenced.
Jack Kelly, who was tried on the drunkenness charge yesterday afternoon, was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $5 and costs or spend six days in jail. He took the jail sentence.

PETTY THIEVES TRIED TO ROB A VENDING MACHINE

Machine or Selling Salted Peanuts Stolen From in Front of Model Barber Shop.

Petty thieves at a late hour last night stole the salted peanut vending machine which stood in front of the Model barber shop on South Franklin street, and tried to break the machine so as to secure the peanuts stored in it, but their efforts were foiled. Taking the machine between two of the buildings, the thieves, three young men of this city, it is thought, were at work trying to get the money, when a night watchman for the company, hearing their noise, came along on his beat. As he approached, the youths fled. He telephoned police headquarters and Chief of Police Appleby and the night watchman found the machine. The only damage to the machine, apparently, was in the breaking of the glass top where the peanuts were kept. The machine was placed in the Machine company's office until called for this morning. The watchman was unable to describe the young men, as they ran away in the darkness.

STRUCK AND KILLED AT ROAD CROSSING BY FAST PASSENGER

Roy Underwood, Living Near Fairfield, Struck by Train, Met Death at Railway's Crossing Last Evening—Brother Was Unhurt.

Roy Underwood, residing in Walworth county in the vicinity of Fairfield, was struck and killed by the fast passenger train from Chicago which arrives in Jansville over the Jansville and Southern branch of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road at 6:55 in the evening. The young man, who is between twenty and twenty-five years of age, was returning with his brother, John Underwood, from a neighbor's, where they had been assisting with the threshing.

The two men were on an empty hay-rack, the brother, John Underwood, driving the team, and the man who was killed occupying the rear of the conveyance. They were overtaken by the fast passenger at Railway's Crossing, which is about a mile south of Fairfield and several miles east of Avalon. It is evident that the driver misjudged the distance between them and the approaching train, as the crossing is not situated in a dangerous place.

The rear of the wagon was struck and the young man was hurled from his seat. His neck was broken and his skull fractured. His nose was also broken and his right leg fractured. His brother escaped without a hurt and the horses were also unscathed. The wagon, however, was badly damaged.

Dr. Z. Picher of Detroit, Mich., who was on the train, was called to look at the young man. Life was still present but he died before he was placed on the train and taken to Jansville. The brother accompanied the remains to Jansville where they were taken to Kimball's morgue.

The young man who was killed, and his brother, resided on what is known as the Taylor farm, near Fairfield. They live with their mother and one sister, Miss Carrie Underwood. Two other sisters of the deceased survive: Mrs. Bert Critton of Delavan, and Hattie Taylor of Milwaukee. He also had another brother or who lived away from home.

FRESH AIR CHILDREN WILL COME TO CITY

Summer Outing Club, in Accordance With Past Customs, Are Going to Bring Poor Chicago Children Here for Outing.

For a number of years past, it has been the custom of the Summer Club of Household Economics to bring a number of children to Jansville from Chicago, and to place them in a couple of weeks with various families around Jansville, who live in the country and thus enable the children to get some fresh air and light before going back to the hot, dirty city.

At their meeting at Firstville, a short time since, the club decided that this year, too, they would follow this scheme which puts some pleasure into the lives of the little ones who can get away from the great city in no other way.

The conduct of the plan was placed in the hands of a committee who are to make all arrangements for the quartering afternoon, at four o'clock, this committee met and arrangements were completed. Their task was to ascertain the number of children that could be taken care of, to plan for their care and to see to their transportation to Jansville. When these arrangements have been definitely decided upon, the children will be brought out from Chicago to be quartered with various Jansville families.

This work of the ladies' club is one of the greatest benefits that it is possible for them to perform. One living always within close touch of the free, open country, does not realize how the little children in the poor districts of a great city are shut in; how their light and air and playgrounds are always closed in by high buildings, giving them no chance for real pleasure.

The ladies are doing a fine work when they bring these children out into the country and deserve much commendation for their efforts.

OIL PAINTING EXHIBIT

J. M. Costwick & Sons Have Rare Canvas.

"The Village Blacksmith," by H. de Maere's famous painting, now on exhibition at the Big Store, is creating much interest, not only with art lovers, but as well with the layman who has not been able to enjoy seeing the creations on canvas of the world's celebrated painters.

The painting is being exhibited free on the second floor of the Boatwick store and is well worthy of all the attention it is receiving. The canvas is 78 feet and depicts a characteristic blacksmith hard at work at his chosen trade. To say the coloring and drawing is magnificent hardly does justice to the work. The Maere's brush has put on canvas an inimitable form so lifelike that one gazes in amazement almost expecting the busy smith to look up from his work on the anvil at one's. But it is not only the man at the forge that the artist's production played; the entire scene is so realistic that it is hardly possible to surmise, even to the little pieces of iron scattered about the floor. The glow of the coals, the red-hot horseshoes, anvil and hammer and the miscellaneuous accessories about the shop are all brought out with exceptional ability.

The painting will be on exhibition until August 5th, and when it is considered that it has a value of $80,000 one may better feel the awe which is due it.

MRS. E. W. CAPELLE CLAIMED BY DEATH

Old and Highly Respected Resident of Jansville, Passed Away At Her Home Last Evening.

Quietly with the coming of the evening hours yesterday, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson Capelle passed away at her home, 163 South High street. Death came to her a long season of suffering from heart disease. Brief periods of recovery came to her toward the end, giving hope now and again to beloved friends, but patiently through the illness she awaited the approaching land of death, which she knew was sure to come.

Mrs. Capelle was one of those noble Christian characters whose warm sympathy and cheerful spirit endeared her in the hearts of a large circle of friends. She was one of the most faithful members of the Methodist church and her entire life was devoted to her church and her home, giving of her best to these sacred institutions. Optimistic and ever hopeful for the best, she was an inspiration to all who made her acquaintance.

Mrs. Capelle was born in Farmington, Ohio, in 1833. Jansville has been her home for over thirty years and it is here that her family has been reared and her friends made. Her husband died in 1883.

Courageous and devoted in her family circle her departure comes as a deep shock to her family, four children of which survive: Mrs. L. H. Rich of Minneapolis; Mrs. Edna M. Capelle, Miss Blanch Capelle, and Fred A. Capelle, all of this city. She also leaves four brothers and one sister. The funeral will be held from the home on South High street Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock.

Charles H. Odell.
Charles H. Odell, a former resident of Jansville, but living for the past few years in Monroe, died at his home there on the afternoon of last Tuesday, July 18. He left to mourn him, one sister, Mrs. A. R. Steele of Jansville, and two brothers, Emory and John Odell. The body was interred there.

Miss Kate Smith.
Miss Kate Smith, an old resident of Jansville, died last night at the home of her sister, Mrs. Julia Fleming on Westwick Avenue. Miss Smith, who was born at Whitewater, lived in that city for the greater part of her life, moving to Jansville about eighteen years ago, and making her home here since that time.

For the past seven months, Miss Smith has been afflicted with a dread disease, but her patience and kindness have made friends of all who knew her. She leaves to mourn her loss her sister, Mrs. Julia Fleming, two brothers, Edward Smith of Whitewater, and James Smith of Jansville, and a niece Mrs. Earl Godfrey of Dakota and several nephews in Jansville. The funeral services will be held from St. Mary's church at nine o'clock, Wednesday morning. The remains will be sent to Whitewater and interred there.

Miss Margaret Crane.
The funeral of Miss Margaret Crane, who died early Saturday morning at her home in Milwaukee, was held this morning at nine o'clock, from St. Patrick's church. The body was interred at Mt. Olivet cemetery. The pallbearers were Vincent Crane, Allen Crane, Roy V. Ryan, Lawrence C. Ryan, Archie Cunningham, and Frank L. Glendon.

George Sennett.
Word was received by Mrs. E. F. Gillespie this morning of the death of her brother, George Sennett, of Madison, in that city this morning. The deceased was a former resident of this city, moving from here about fifteen years ago. He was forty-four years of age and was born in Jansville.

The remains will probably be brought to Jansville for burial. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

Roy Underwood.
The funeral of Roy Underwood, who was killed yesterday on the railroad crossing at Avalon, will be held on Thursday next. The body, which was taken to Avalon this morning at 10:15, will be interred at the Richmond cemetery.

BOOKS ARE ORDERED FOR COUNTY SCHOOL

Between Three and Four Hundred Books for Use in Training School Library, Ordered Today.

Between three and four hundred books which will be used in the library of the county training school were ordered from an Eau Claire firm with whom the state has a contract today. The selection of the books was made by P. J. Lowth, principal of the school and comprises a list of the more important volumes that will be most needed in the school work. Their cost will total the county in the neighborhood of $175, which is a great reduction from the regular classified price of the company.

This collection of books which will be increased from time to time, will be used to instruct the training school students in the use of library books, similar copies of which in smaller numbers, are to be found in the rural schools of the county. Catalogues, value as references, and other points will be emphasized.

A number of text books owned by the county and loaned to the students for a nominal amount, have been secured and some of them are in use at present. More copies will be ordered at a future time.

FATHER M'GINNITY GIVEN BIG RECEPTION

LARGE CROWD EXPRESSES APPRECIATION OF SERVICES DURING NINE YEARS AT ST. PATRICK'S.

GETS $1,000 IN GIFTS

Friends From All Parts of the City Contributed to Give Tokens of Love and Esteem.

Members of St. Patrick's congregation and others in large numbers gathered at Assembly hall last night to give testimony of their appreciation of the services rendered by Rev.

the former giving $100 and the latter $25. Another purse amounting to the sum of $765 was given by the congregation and speaks as well as any words could tell how high in their esteem the former assistant pastor has been and is still held. In addition to these there were many other presents from Catholic and non-Catholic friends which raised the total value of the gifts to him to more than $1,000. These gifts as well as the many kind words spoken at the reception and on the streets give evidence of the appreciation felt for the work Father McGinnity has done in this city. His genial good nature and earnestness has endeared him to his devotees in the city and while they regret that he must leave their midst they are grateful that his new parish is near enough to permit him to return often to visit with old friends in this city.

In his presentation speech Dean Reilly voiced the sentiments of those who contributed to the purses when

ALL-NIGHT TRIP FOR SCOUTS IS READY

Plans for Their Over-Night Camping Trip Have Been Completed. Will Start Thursday Afternoon.

In a program which has just been issued, and which is posted in the Public Library, at the foot of the stairs leading to the Spanish War Veterans' hall, and in the carrier room at the Gazette, Scout Commissioner Reeder makes public the following events for the boys. On Tuesday night, July 25, there will be the regular scout drill. Full attendance at this drill is desired for instructions will be given in regard to the all-night hike.

Wednesday night, at 6:30, the West side troop will go swimming in charge of an instructor. On Thursday night, the all-night hike in charge of Capt. Jacko will occur. Saturday afternoon, at 2:30, Scout Master Reeder will take the scouts on a wheel hike. This hike is to be a long one but will end before dark, Saturday night.

The over-night hike on Thursday will be of special interest and pleasure to the boys. Capt. Jacko will be in charge and will instruct the scouts in the various duties of making camp. The boys will carry light dogstents with them, and each will take rations for two meals in his knapsack. The squad will leave at three in the afternoon and will start back at about half past five Friday morning. Their course will be out the Madison road for about four miles, across the four mile bridge and back to Crystal Springs where camp will be pitched.

While in camp, regular drill will be practiced; at night guards will be posted and order maintained. The scouts will be taught to pitch their tents quickly and properly, they will learn how to trench, and will be instructed in all the little wrinkles that are necessary for camp life. Their meals they will get for themselves, and each one must be prepared with enough food for two hearty meals for the tramp and camp work will produce fine appetites. This trip will be the first of the kind that the boys have had, but it will be doubt be so enjoyable that more will be taken in the future. Work like this training in outdoor life is very valuable and one of the best features of scoutcraft.

RECIPROCITY FOES ARE DEFIED.

Canadian Prime Minister Demands Immediate Action by Parliament.

Ottawa, Ont., July 25.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, prime minister of Canada, today notified the opposition in the house of commons that unless obstruction to a vote on reciprocity were abated and the government permitted to pass it he would appeal to the country in a general election. Both sides received the declaration with cheers and a lively political shindy followed, each maneuvering for advantage.

Report French Envoy Slain. Paris, July 25.—It is rumored in Spanish circles that Bolssel, the French consular agent at Alcazar, in Morocco, has been assassinated. The rumor is doubted.

Last Survivor of Seminole War Dead. Chattanooga, Tenn., July 25.—W. F. M. Rier, ninety-seven, the only survivor of the Seminole war, is dead of old age at Flint Springs, Tenn.

Drings $500,000 From Alaska. Seattle, Wash., July 25.—The steamer City of Seattle arrived from Alaska with $500,000 in gold bullion from Alaska mines.

For Better Health. One heroic cure for dyspepsia is to eat only when really hungry. As an experienced doctor says: "No man ever died of starvation without being hungry." If the appetite does not return stimulate it by active exercise. Habits sometimes suffer from too much attention, too much dressing, too much feeding and sometimes too much medicine.

Value of Friendship. True friendship is one of the greatest blessings upon earth. It makes the cares and anxieties of life all easily; provides us with a partner in our afflictions, and is a sure resort against every accident and difficulty that can happen to us.

The Philosopher of Folly. "Women wouldn't have so much trouble with their men folks," says the Philosopher of Folly, "if they'd believe a little less of what they said before marriage, and a little more of what they say afterwards."

Why We Live On. What a lot of frauds we are. Many a man is living on because he hates to have the world learn that his pearl studs are bogus, his gold dinner set plated, his watch a Waterbury, his dress suit a hand-me-down, his bank account nil.—New York Telegram.

Sweet Revenge. Some day a philanthropic rich man will get revenge by leaving his fortune to the lawyers, so his kin can have the satisfaction of watching them waste it in fighting among themselves. Atchison Globe.

Daily Thought. Don't worry over annoying trifles; the more you think about them the worse they seem. Make up your mind that you will do the best you can to remedy matters and then forget them as far as possible.—Homes Chat.

Will Tattooed on Body. A Mexican miner who died not long ago was found to have his will tattooed on his breast. It caused his heirs no end of bother, as the document had to be copied before the man could be buried.

MINERS RIOT; SEVERAL INJURED.

Five Officers and Score of Laborers Hurt at Elendale, Pa.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 25.—In a riot between miners of the Mansfield mine of the Pittsburg Coal company at Elendale, an isolated portion of Allegheny county, three constables, two county detectives, and a score of miners were injured, several fatally. Fourteen men and one woman have been arrested. All were held in $1,000 bail. Cleveland, O., July 25.—Over sixty shots were exchanged between strikers and guards in a garment strikers' riot. Two strikers were wounded and the police made many arrests.

EX-PRINCESS CHIMAY DIVORCED.

Paris Court Decrees That Mme. Ricciardi Must Not Remarry.

Paris, July 25.—The civil court has issued a decree of conditional separation to M. Ricciardi and Mme. Ricciardi, the former Princess Chimay, who was Miss Clara Ward of Detroit, Mich. The decree provides that the parties shall live apart, but does not permit either to remarry. The decree was granted on the request of the husband.

A RARE TREAT TO ART LOVERS

Free Exhibition—Second Floor—Take Elevator

"The Village Blacksmith"

By H. de Mareau—The Great French Artist.

IT IS WITH THE GREATEST PLEASURE WE ANNOUNCE THAT—FOR A SHORT TIME ONLY—WE WILL HAVE ON EXHIBITION—FREE OF ANY CHARGE—ON OUR SECOND FLOOR—THE MARVELOUS, WORLD FAMOUS MASTERPIECE OF FRENCH ART.

During the year of 1859, a French artist was born to the world in Cannes, and died in Lyons, in 1903. This picture, one of the many fire-light creations by this gifted artist, was completed about three months before his death.

The size of the canvas is 7x8 feet. It was painted in a blacksmith shop in Lyons, France, and was not seen by the public for nearly a year afterwards.

Like thousands of other geniuses, Mareau was a poor man and at the time of his death was actually indebted to the blacksmith 100 francs for his services as a model and the use of the shop. Anxious to secure what was due him, the blacksmith called upon the widow and informed her of the existence of the picture. She at once endeavored to sell it. After showing it to a number of art dealers in Paris, she was offered $2,500 for it by M. Doubette, and the offer was accepted. He entered the canvas at the Grand Salon where it received a bronze medal and was re-sold for $12,500. It has changed hands five times since, each time the price increasing. The present owner, E. M. Thalis, of Boston, paid $42,500 for the canvas and values it at $60,000.

When it was brought to America it was first exhibited in Wanamaker's, in Philadelphia. Since then, it has been exhibited in that city five times. It has traveled over 70,000 miles in the United States and has been viewed by over 12,000,000 people, who have have been permitted to see it in the big stores, in the greater American cities.

Wonderful in Conception. Magnificent in Coloring. Startlingly Realistic

The brawny old Blacksmith, as he stands intent upon his work, is himself a type, showing fine, artistic treatment, while the whole effect portrays unmistakably the influence of a master.

In one's mind, as the picture is seen, rise the words of Longfellow in his eternal Psalm of Labor:

"The Smith, a mighty man is he,
With large and sinewy hands;
And the muscles of his brawny arms
Are strong as iron bands."

DEAN REILLY.

James J. McGinnity during the nine years he has spent among them as assistant pastor and to express their hopes that his new field at Milton Junction may prove as fruitful of good works and mutual friendship as the parish in this city has been during his stay here.

Although the interesting program rendered was full of pleasure for the large crowd it was easy to see that it served to heighten by contrast the feelings of sadness which were entertained by the large crowd at losing such an agreeable and helpful friend as Father James has been. Addresses given by Mayor Nichols and Alderman J. J. Dolan expressed the esteem in which he has been held by the people of this city and especially those with whom he has labored in St. Patrick's parish.

During his stay here his particular object has been the organization of young people's societies for the guidance of the young citizens and through his earnest efforts the Young Ladies' Sodality, the Children of Mary and St. Anthony's Society have grown and flourished and have afforded great pleasure to the many who have become members of these different societies. These have also been a source of great encouragement to the priests and the parents alike for the help they have given in the training of the young people. The members of these societies, especially the Young Ladies' Sodality and the Children of Mary, expressed their appreciation of the help given them by presenting the assistant pastor with substantial sums, he said that behind the gifts was the feeling of sincere love and esteem that would live long after the gifts were gone. He expressed also his personal appreciation of the earnest assistance given him by Father James and stated that his work in the past is sufficient evidence that the work in his new field will be fruitful of much good and of many new and true friends.

Although every member on the program would be worthy of special mention because of the excellent manner in which they were rendered, the one which seemed most to reach the hearts of the listeners was the vocal solo, My Rosary, given by Ray Carter. The arrangement committee composed of Mesdames James Gallagher, John Dooley, Ben Griffin and J. W. McCue are to be congratulated on the success in securing such talent for the entertainment.

In reply to the addresses given by the other speakers and in expressing his thanks for the gifts and for the reception given in his honor Father James declared that this was one of the very few occasions on which he was at a loss to find words to express his feelings. That the work here has been so congenial and so fruitful of good as the others stated he attributed to the earnest co-operation that the people of the city has given him in all his undertakings. In closing he expressed the hope that they will continue to assist the new assistant pastor, Father Thomas Jankowsky who has come to take his place. Although the gifts which were received were accepted by him as a striking proof of the love and esteem in which he was held by his many friends, Father James stated that the mutual friendship formed will last and afford him greater pleasure than anything that could be given in the form of money.

At the close of the program the large crowd gathered about their former assistant pastor to bid him farewell, to wish him the best possible success in his new parish and express their hope that he may return often to visit in this city.

The program given was as follows:

SAVES KITTENS; DIES IN FIRE.

Woman Rushes Into Burning Building and Rescues Four.
Los Angeles, Cal., July 25.—Shrieking "My babies, they are all I have in the world," Miss Louise Frederick, an artist, rushed back into a burning apartment house here, and after throwing a basket containing four white Angora kittens out of the window fell back and perished in the flames. The kittens landed unhurt in the street.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

"YES I knew it was wrong but I didn't have any idea how wrong."

"Again and again I have that said to me by young girls," a well known woman specialist said to me the other day, "and I think it is a shocking indictment of the parents that let such a state of affairs be possible."

So do I.

It points to a neglect or a carelessness or a foolish reticence that seems to me well nigh criminal.

Speech is silver and silence is golden, is a good enough rule for many occasions, but there are conditions when silence is golden and the right kind of speech is golden, and I thoroughly believe that this is one of them.

Self-knowledge does not necessarily bring self-control, but it certainly supplies one incentive towards it.

Even if they had definitely known "how wrong" these girls might not have had the strength to save themselves, but they certainly would have been much more likely to.

And this chance was denied them by those who profess to, and probably do, love them more than anyone else on earth—their mothers.

We are hearing a great deal lately from President Elliot and others about the advisability of having full instruction in sex hygiene made a part of the school curriculum.

It seems very sad to me that that is necessary.

Of course I know that that is better than to have our children groping about and piece together the mysteries of sex in pathetically crooked and incomplete form from what they may read in patent medicine advertisements or what they may hear from their companions.

But I think the home and not the school room is the proper place for such instruction and that the best results will come when it is given in the home.

Doubtless until the American parents awaken to their duty in this matter, school instruction will be vastly better than none at all, but I do hope it will not be many years before fathers and mothers will come to realize more fully their tremendous responsibility in this direction and our sons and daughters shall no longer have to fight their battles in the hampering darkness of ignorance or garbled knowledge.

SUGGEST SOMETHING FOR ENTERTAINMENT FOR SUMMER MONTHS

The Gazette Feature Editor Desires Opinions of Readers on Important Matter.

Even the ordinary ways of providing entertainment and amusement for the family and guests in the summer time may be varied. In such a way that they will seem new. There is always a charm to an evening luncheon but what new departure can you suggest for passing the time that you spend at the cottage or picnic grounds before the return journey?

What sort of excursion or diversion do you provide for your family during July and August? Nearly every family has plans of its own for amusement and these will be interesting to the readers of the Woman's Page.

The Feature Editor has made the scope of this contest rather broad so that it will include a wide range of subjects which may be taken as topics. Plans for luncheons or dinner parties are admitted and will be a very fertile field for those who are especially proficient in this line.

In case there are any persons who do not entirely understand what the scope of the contest is and what will be accepted, and questions which are mailed to the Feature Editor will be answered in the columns of this page.

Your articles must be in this office by the first of August to be entered in the competition. They should be written on one side of the paper only and should be addressed to the Feature Editor, care of Gazette.

First Prize—Caloric Fireless Cook-stove.

Second Prize—Set of 45 pieces of Flow Blue Dishes.

Third Prize—Vacuum Bottle.

Fourth Prize—Sampson Kitchen Scales.

The contest will end August 1st.

When a man will trust his wife with his name, his honor and his children, and will not trust her with his purse, it is easy to see on which he puts the highest value.

CARING FOR CURRANTS.

This pleasant acid fruit is most refreshing in hot weather and a dessert of red and white currants in a pretty glass dish is one that will please the most fastidious palate. Currant jelly holds the highest place among jellies, the red is usually used because of its beautiful color. The black currant is greatly prized by many of the older housekeepers; in fact they were famous remedies for colds and sore throat in our grandmother's youth. Large black or red cherry currants make a beautiful garnish for a dessert. If prepared as follows: Dip also bunches of the fruit into the well beaten white of egg, then roll in sugar and lay on a paper to dry.

Spiced Currants.—Take two pounds of brown sugar, half a teaspoonful of salt, a cup of vinegar, a tablespoonful each of cinnamon, ginger, allspice and cloves. Cook all together thirty minutes. Keep in a stone jar well covered and sealed.

Black Currant and Raspberry Ice Cream.—Rub a pint of black currants through a sieve with a quart of raspberries, add a pint of sugar and let stand an hour. Add a quart of whipped cream and freeze.

Black Currant Jam.—Gather the fruit on a dry day and see that it is perfectly ripe. After stripping the currants from their stems put them in a preserving kettle with just water enough to cover. Let them come to a boil and boil five minutes. Warm the sugar in the oven and allow a pound for every pound of fruit. Stir and cook for forty-five minutes, reckoning from the time it simmers all over. Try a little on a cold plate, and if it does not set quickly, boil a little longer. Put away in sealed jars.

This jam is delicious for steamed puddings and for dumplings.

When the currants are fresh the following pudding is a good one:

Black Currant Pudding.—Line a plain buttered dish with buttered bread and pour over it a pound of black currants and a pound of sugar that have been cooked together. Place more bread on top and put a weight to press out the juice. When cold turn on a deep dish and serve with cream.

Size of Whales.

The average sperm whale is about 29 feet long, weighs 140,000 pounds and will yield 60,000 pounds of blubber (from which 48,000 pounds of train oil can be made) and 2,000 pounds of whalebone.

An Opportunity.

Judge—"Do you swear to tell the truth, the whole truth?" Fair Witness—"It will be just perfectly lovely if you really have the time to listen."—Harper's Bazar.

For Belt Making

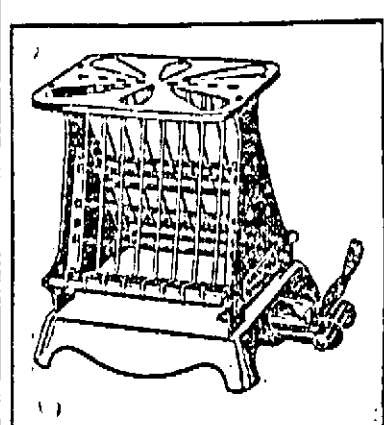

This design for a belt may be done very simply in linen with colored threads or a silk material. The linen belts are more popular, however, and much more practical, as they may be laundered easily.

SOMETHING NEW IN TOASTERS

Pacific El Tosto is an Electrical Device Which Also is a Warming Table.

"Improved" seems to be the watchword as to household electrical devices. The Pacific El Tosto here illustrated shows something new—a warming table on the top to keep the coffee pot or any other dish warm during the meal. If you wish to prepare zwieback just lay the toast upon this shelf until it is well dried through.—Popular Mechanics.

An Improved Toaster.

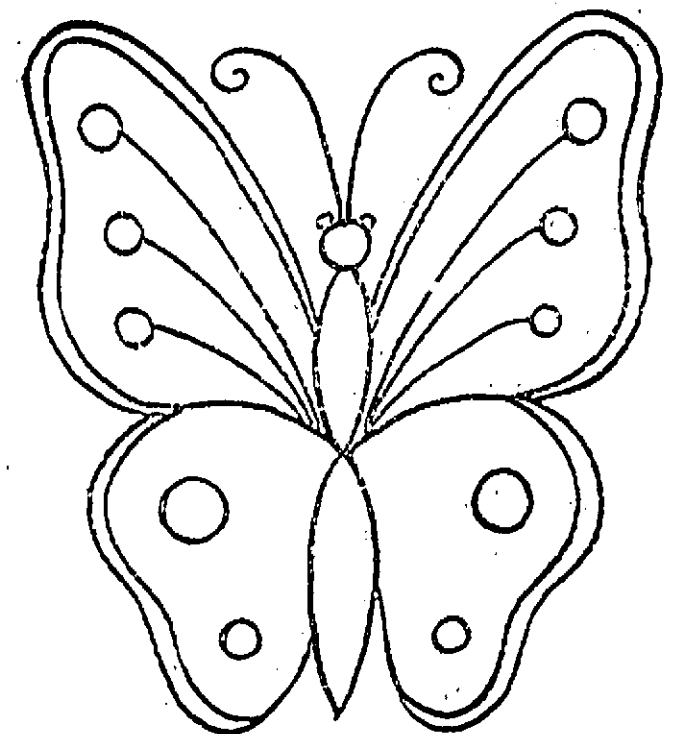

Covers for Dressing Table. Although bureau and dressing table covers may be of almost any material, many of the prettiest are made of linen, embroidered by hand. If made at home, or machine embroidered it bought in the shops.

These sell quickly, however, and those made of natural linen should be a boon to the busy housewife. A pretty pair of these were made of ecru linen, edged with buttonhole embroidery in white and a taffeta design as a border. These are cool looking, and do not show the soil as readily as do the white ones.

Killing the Rabbit. Victoria, Australia, spends $175,000 per year in the endeavor to exterminate the rabbit.

Serious Mistake. A good many people mistake habit for religion.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Foley's Kidney Pills are specially useful in all ailments and disorders of the kidneys and bladder, because they are composed of ingredients specially selected for their corrective, healing, tonic, and stimulating effect upon these organs and the urinary passages. They are antiseptic, antilithic and a uric acid solvent. Try them.—Budge Drug Co.

FOR CENTERPIECES OR TABLE COVERS.

This is a most effective decoration for centerpieces, screens and table covers. A very pretty way to work the butterfly is to lay a piece of heavy cotton net on the linen and baste it down. Then transfer your pattern and buttonhole closely all around the edge. Embroider the body and dots in the solid satin stitch and the curved lines in the outline stitch. When finished, cut away the linen, leaving the embroidered net wings. Use mercerized cotton No. 20 for the work.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist

TABLES OF FOOD VALUES SOMETIMES MISLEAD.

Tables of food values are interesting and helpful. They indicate the time required for the stomach digestion of each of the principal foods, the percentage of moisture, heating and flesh-forming and mineral elements contained in them. Tables showing the comparative economic values of foods have also been prepared. Such knowledge is necessary to enable one to make an intelligent selection of food. Whether, for instance, eggs are to be preferred to bananas or bananas to potatoes depends upon the knowledge as well as upon the taste. But nowhere is a little knowledge more dangerous. For instance, a well known standard table shows that for 25 cents one can buy more nutrition in sugar than in wheat bread, corn or beans. It is true that the fuel value of 25 cents worth of sugar is greater than that of bread or of beans, and yet a fuller understanding of the practical considerations reverses the estimate, even making it doubtful whether sugar (cane sugar) should be used at all. Fat pork is represented as being four times as valuable as an equal amount of round beef, and yet as neither is necessary in an economic diet, it becomes rather a question of which is the greater luxury for occasional use. In determining the value of any food a variety of circumstances must be considered.

WHAT AWFUL BACKACHE

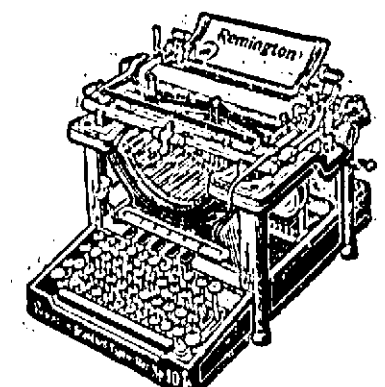

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have the backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE Woodall, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for special advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

Heart and Home Talks

Looking Upward.

The Blessed Hills of Life.

ALAS, for the life that loses its hills!" exclaims a great preacher. At first, one is inclined to doubt the truth of what he says, but the more it is pondered, the more one sees in it.

Many of us look upon the hills of life as places that mean only toil and hardship. But evidently, we are limiting our vision. Others, it seems, get much more out of life's hills than this, else, would they say, "Alas, for the life that loses its hills!"

Hills have other uses than merely to be climbed, though climbing is not to be despised. If it does nothing else, it strengthens our muscles and gives us greater endurance.

But hills give us a new outlook, a higher outlook. When we get up into the hills, we discern things we could not see on the plain. Hills are places of leafy silence, places where we can meditate and commune with the inner self. Hills are the fountain head of the streams that bring the pure, refreshing "water" to those in the valley below. What would the Nile be without the hills of Abyssinia? What would the Ganges be without the snows of the Himalayas? And so when we think of hills in these ways, we can say with the preacher, "Alas, for the life that loses its hills!"

The life that flows on a monotonous level, that has no mounts of visions, no hills of aspiration, is missing much. The one who finds his life wearing down to this level should look about him for some hills. Rather the wearisome climb that sets the life-giving blood tingling through his veins than such inertness, deadness. No one can live the joyful life that should be his without the hills.

It is, as has been said, an effort to climb these hills. But we should not think of the effort only, but of the vision that will be ours when they have been surmounted, of the strength that will come as we put each difficulty under our feet, of the inspiration that always comes by learning to do the hard thing. Too many think of the climb and forget the recompense.

Welcome, then, the hills, instead of the monotonous level. Soul them out rather than refuse to climb them. Do not let your path in life lead away from the hills. You may think the road is harder that winds up and down, but it has its rewards. The character grows in strength, in sweetness and beauty. One sees farther into the meaning of life. One gets closer to the infinite. The preacher voiced a truth to be heeded when he said, "Alas, for the life that loses its hills."

CRYSTAL MOORE.

"HUMAN AURA" PLAINLY SEEN, CURE FOR AILMENTS.

Chicago, Ill.—The experiments of local physicians conducted at Mercy hospital may open a new epoch in the diagnosis of disease. For years it has been known that the body radiates an "atmosphere" or aura visible to some people with the naked eye and through the discoveries of Dr. Kilner of London made visible to anyone through the use of filtering lenses. Dr. Patrick S. O'Donnell, who has been following this discovery, constructed a lens and with other physicians and nurses at the hospital plainly saw the human aura on five women models secured from the Art School. The aura particularly in one of the models, Crystal Moore, astounded physicians and nurses. It is claimed that by analyzing the aura ailments of the human body can be detected.

LAWRENCE W. THIELE WEDDED TO CHICAGO GIRL THIS MORNING

Son of Prof. and Mrs. W. T. Thiele and Miss Genevieve Wittl Elected to This City and Were Married by Fr. Goebel.

Lawrence W. Thiele, son of Prof. and Mrs. W. T. Thiele of this city, who for the past year has been working in Chicago, and Miss Genevieve L. Wittl of Chicago, were united in marriage at eight o'clock this morning at St. Mary's church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William A. Goebel in the presence of relatives of the groom and a few intimate friends. The bride, who was escorted by Miss Camilla Thiele, a sister of the groom, and Edward Heider, immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's parents, 425 Fourth avenue. The happy couple left today on a wedding trip to the northern part of the state.

The groom is well known in this city and has many friends here. He is an accomplished singer and was a member of the young men's choir at St. Mary's church. He was formerly employed by the Gazette Printing company, but has been engaged in a similar line of work in a Chicago printing plant for a year past.

The bride, whose parents reside at 4825 Forestville avenue, Chicago, is popular among the younger social set of the South Side.

This wedding today was the culmination of an elopement yesterday morning from Chicago, a marriage license and special permit to wed at once being secured in this city last evening. Regarding the Chicago end of the affair the Inter Ocean this morning prints the following:

"Asleep at the switch, but awakened ere too late."

This is the title of a thrilling romance enacted in Chicago early yesterday morning at the home of a South Side family, which, after many exciting incidents and unfortunate mishaps, ended happily in the elopement of a young couple.

The principals were Miss Eva Wittl, pretty and vivacious and, as she puts it, "old enough to know her own mind," and Lawrence Thiele, Miss Wittl is 19 years old and lives at 4825 Forestville avenue, while her modern "Lechivar" is but one year older and lives in Janesville. The rendezvous to which the happy pair fled away via an early morning train.

The scene of the encounter was a secluded spot at the rear of the Wittl home, for that is where the lover, after waiting hours for his sweetheart, meantime making back and forth and furtively glancing in the direction of a window to catch the signal of "all well," finally succumbed to the sweet scented roses that beckoned invitingly over the railing and fell asleep.

As would have gone well had it not been for the over watchful mother, who scented something unusual in the atmosphere from the way her daughter lingered in the living room, evidently waiting for the mother to retire, but not she, Mrs. Wittl, planted herself in a big comfortable armchair and decided to remain there until her daughter called 1, the daughter became excited and bade her mother a fond "good night." With the daughter supposedly tucked away in bed the mother was not long in putting out the lights for the night. It was a long time, however, before the younger generation dared stir.

But what was the girl's surprise when, after hastily picking her suitcase and tripping noiselessly down stairs and out through the back door, to find her "Romance" tightly clasped in the arms of "Morpheus."

Her pride angered her and she decided to leave him there, but as she was picking her way back to the house she tripped over a stone. Her cry of fright awakened the slumbering sweethearts and in an instant she was in his arms.

A hurried run to a taxicab waiting at St. Lawrence avenue and a rush to the railway station got them aboard the 6 o'clock train just as it pulled out for Janesville.

A congratulatory message received from the father yesterday afternoon added not a little toward sending them on their way rejoicing and the wedding will take place this morning in Janesville, where Mr. Thiele is in the printing business.

NOTES FOR CITY FARMERS ONLY.

(By H. L. RANN.)

A correspondent writes to ask if skinned milk should not be skinned before feeding to young pigs. We should say no. You might as well give a pig a chicken as a milk can. The man who can fatten a yearling pig on skinned milk ought to be able to fatten a whole kennel on a soap bubble. There is no way we know of to find a pig's appetite. A pig can't eat more than it can squeeze in four languages, but you couldn't drive him away from the trough with a pikefork. You can flush a pig with skinned milk for forty-eight hours without destroying his savory faith.

As a work of art, the modern cork catalogue makes the product of the Chicago Art Institute look like a type of grandeur in the age of the thirteenth. If it hadn't been for the need catalogue, the impressionist school of painting would be about as popular as a spoony girl with a cold sore. An illustration for these catalogues makes the work of old Rembrandt and Mike Angelo resemble a chromo of "Niagara Falls by Moonlight." He can paint a bush on a tomato that will eat up more red paint than a new barn. We saw a near-sighted man chew the cover off of an apple catalogue the other day, with the result that he got his pipes clogged with yellow ochre and had to be rinsed out with kerosene. Every time when the latest art for art's sake has usurped the place of useful catalogue should have one of these catalogues on the center table.

One of the most improving sights in urban life is the popularity of the farmer at primary election time. This pastime of cultivating the farmer every once in two years has become quite a fad with aspiring city candidates whose chief qualification are a tankful of gall and an invulnerable wind pressure. Exercise the same care in picking out a candidate that you would in buying a shirt. It requires about the same degree of perspicacity, and both are liable to be a disappointment.

If your girl husbands upon looking up with some peasant faced dude, who wears a collar of red gloves in his upper left coat pocket and never earned a dime in the world outside of a poker joint, don't argue the matter with her. Read the twenty-fourth verse of the thirteenth chapter of Proverbs and get busy.

CHILD'S HEAD SOLID MASS OF HUMOR

It Was Awful. Cried Continually. Had to Hold and Watch Him to Keep Him from Scratching. Suffering Was Dreadful.

Had not Used Half a Set of Cuticura Remedies Before Head Was Clear and Free from Eczema.

"I think the Cuticura Remedies are the best remedies for eczema I have ever heard of. My mother had a child who had a rash on its head when it was only young. Doctor called it baby rash. He gave us medicine, but it did no good. In a few days the head was a solid mass, a running sore. It was awful, the child cried continually. We had to hold him and watch him to keep him from scratching the sores. His suffering was dreadful. At last we remembered Cuticura Remedies. We got a dollar bottle of Cuticura. I used a box of Cuticura Ointment, and a bar of Cuticura Soap. We gave the Resolvent as directed, washed the head with the Cuticura Soap, and applied the Cuticura Ointment. We had not used half before the child's head was clear and free from eczema, and it has never come back again. His head was healthy and he had a beautiful head of hair. I think the Cuticura Ointment was good for the hair. It makes the hair grow and prevents falling hair." (Signed) Mrs. Francis Lund, Plain City, Utah, Sept. 19, 1910.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are for sale throughout the world, but to those who have suffered much, let us send you a box of Cuticura Ointment, a bar of Cuticura Soap, and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, a liberal sample of each with 32-p. booklet on the skin will be mailed free, on application. Address: Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 1234, Boston.

DOING OF THE VAN LOONS—But then Grace has to do something to amuse herself in the country.

The Taming of Red Butte Western

By FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright, 1910, by Charles Scribner's Sons.

"Benson" said little lower in his chair. "The first thing I found was a couple of armed guards, a pair of tough looking citizens, with guns sagging at their hips, looking around the wire silver back door. There is quite a little nest of buildings at the old entrance to the wire silver, and a stockade has been built to inclose them. The old spur runs through a gap in the stockade, and the gate was open, but the two toughs wouldn't let me go inside. I wangled with them first and tried to bribe them afterward, but it was no go. Then I started to walk around the outside of the stockade, which is only a high board fence, and they objected to that. Thereupon I told them to go straight to blazes and walked away down the spur, but when I got out of sight around the little curve I took to the timber on the little slope and climbed to a point from which I could look over into Fleming's carefully built inclosure."

"Well, what did you see?"

"Much or little, just as you happen to look at it. There are half a dozen buildings in the yard, and two of them are new and unpainted. Sizing them up from a distance, I said to myself that the lumber in them hadn't been very long out of the mill. One of them is evidently the power house. It has an iron chimney set in the roof, and the power plant was running."

"You say two of the buildings are new. Did you make any inquiries about recent lumber shipments to the wire silver?"

"I did," said the young engineer soberly. "So far as our station records show, Fleming has had no material save coal shipped in over either the eastern or the western spur for several months."

"Then you believe that he took your bridge timbers and saved them up into lumber?"

"I do as firmly as I believe that the sun will rise tomorrow. And that isn't all of it, Lidgerwood. He is the man who has your switch engine. As I have said, the power plant was running while I was up there today. The power is a steam engine, and if you'd stand off and listen to it you'd swear it was a locomotive pulling a light train up an easy grade, but I think you will agree with me that the burden of proof lies upon Fleming."

Lidgerwood was nodding slowly. "Yes, on Fleming and some others. Who are the others, Benson?"

"I have no more guesses coming, and I am too tired to invent any. Suppose we drop it until tomorrow. I'm afraid it means a fight or a funeral, and I am not quite equal to either tonight."

CHAPTER IX. JENSON'S JOKE.

BARTON RUFFORD, ex-distiller of illicit whiskey in the Tennessee mountains, ex-welder turned informer and betrayer of his neighbor lawbreakers to the United States revenue officers, everything which made his continued stay in the Cumberland impossible, was a man of distinction in the first desert.

In the wider field of the west he had been successively a chain jumper, a rustler of unbranded cattle, a telegraph operator in collusion with a gang of train robbers and finally a faro lookout, the armed guard who sits at the head of the gaming table in the untamed regions to kill, and kill quickly, if a dispute arises.

Angels acknowledged his citizenship without joy. He tyrannized the town when the humor was on him, and as yet no counter bully had come to chase him into oblivion.

For Lidgerwood to have considered the equivalent to one of three things—the equivalent would throw up his job and leave the Red desert, preferably by the first train, or Rufford would kill him, or he must kill Rufford. In the Angels roundhouse the attempt upon Lidgerwood's life at the gate of the Dawson cottage the discomfited man was spluttered, not to say astounded.

"I'm telling you that Collins and Cuffs ain't going to run away," insisted Williams, who was just in from the all night trip to Red Butte and return. "He ain't built that way."

Lester, the roundhouse foreman, himself a man queller of no mean repute, thought differently. Lidgerwood would most likely take to the high grass and the tall timber. The alternative was to "pack a gun" for Rufford, an alternative quite inconceivable to Lester when it was predicated of the superintendent.

"I don't know about that," said Lidgerwood, the discharged—and consequently momentarily sobered—engineer of the 271. "He's fooled everybody more than once since he lit down in the Red desert. I don't know but he might even run a bluff on Bart Rufford if he felt like it."

"Come off, John," growled the big foreman. "You needn't be afraid to talk straight over here. He hit you when you was down, and we all know you're only waitin' for a chance to hit back."

Jidger was a red headed man, effectively good natured when he was in liquor and a quick tempered fighter of battles when he was not.

"Don't you make any such mistake!" he snarled. "That's what McCloskey said when he lured me to the 'goodly.' 'You'll be one more to a round robin' for Mr. Lidgerwood's throat. I suppose," says he, by cries, what I said to him I'm sayin' to you, Bob Lester! I know good and well idently when I've earned my blue envelope, if I'd been in the super's place the 271 would have had a new runner a long time ago."

"I say hell chase his feet," puffed Broadbent, the fat matchmaker, who was trailing off the valve seats of the 195.

"If Rufford doesn't make him there's some others that will."

Jidger dared up again.

"Who you quoth' now, Paddy—one of the shop prentices? Or maybe it's Hank Hallack? Say, what's he doin' monkeyin' round the back shop so much lately? I'm goin' to stay round here till I get a chance to lick that scrub."

"You rail pounders 'd better get next to Hankin' Hallack," Broadbent warned. "He's the next superintendent of the R. R. W. You'll see the 'pointment circular the next day after that Jimindly over in the Crow's Nest gets moved off'n the map."

"Well, I'm some afreared Bart Rufford's likely to move him," drawled Clay, the six foot Kentuckian, who was filling the 195's benches at the bench. "Which the same I ain't rejoinin' about neither. That little case is shore a mighty good railroad man. And when you ain't rubbin' his fur the wrong way he treats you white."

"For instance?" snapped Hodges, a freight engineer who had been thrice "on the carpet" in Lidgerwood's office for overrunning his orders.

"Oh, they ain't so blame' hard to find," Clay retorted. "Last week when we was out on the Navajo wreck me and the boy didn't have no dinner buckets. Bradford was runnin' the super's car, and when Andy just sort of happened to mention the famine up along, the little man made that dip cook of his get us up a dinner that'd make your hair frizzle. He shore did."

It was Williams' turn, and what he said was cantabulary.

"Dry up, you fellows! Here comes Gridley."

The master mechanic was walking down the planked track from the back shop carrying his years, which showed only in the graying mustache and chin beard, and his 180 pounds of well set up bone and muscle jauntily.

Like many another man, Henry Gridley lived a double life, or perhaps it would be nearer the truth to say that there were two Henry Gridleys. Lidgerwood, the Dawson, the little world of Angels at large, knew the civil, accomplished mechanical engineer and master of men, which was his normal personality. What time the other personality, the elemental barbarian, yawned, stretched itself and came awake, the unspeakable dens of the camp lower quarter engulfed him until the temper of the men was somewhat attituded by wholesome fear it was none the less loyal.

To his men Gridley was a tyrant, exacting, but just, ruling them as the men of the desert could only be ruled, with the mailed fist. Generous roughness were recorded of him, and if the attitude of the men was somewhat attituded by wholesome fear it was none the less loyal.

Hence when he entered the roundhouse industrious silence supplanted the discussion of the superintendent's case. Glancing at the group of enginemen, he beckoned to Jidger. "When the discharged engineer had followed him across the turntable he faced about and said, not too crisply: 'So your sibs have found you out one more time, have they, John? What is it this time—thirty days?'"

Jidger shook his head gloomily. "No, I'm down and out."

"Lidgerwood made it final, did he? Well, you can't blame him."

"You hadn't heard me saying anything, have you?" was the surly rejoinder.

"No, but it isn't in human nature to forget these little things." Then suddenly, "Where were you day before yesterday between noon and 1 o'clock—about the time you should have been taking your train out?"

Jidger had a needle-like mind when the alcohol was out of it, and the sudden query made him dissemble.

"About 10 o'clock I was playing pool in Rufford's place with the butt end of the cue. After that things got kind of hazy."

"Well, I want you to buckle down and think hard. Don't you remember going over to Cat Higgs' about noon and sitting down at one of the empty card tables to drink yourself stiff?"

Jidger could not have told under the thumbcrews why he was prompted to tell Gridley a plain lie. But he did it.

"I can't remember," he denied. Then the needle pointed brain got in. The shrewd gray eyes of the old foreman stared at him.

"I saw you there when I was going up to dinner. You called me in to tell me what you were going to do to Lidgerwood if he started you for getting drunk. Don't you remember it?"

Jidger was looking the master mechanic fairly in the eyes when he said, "No, I don't remember a thing about it."

"Try again," said Gridley, and now the shrewd gray eyes under the brim of the soft rolled felt hat held the engineer helpless.

"I guess I do—remember it—now," said Jidger slowly, trying, still heartlessly, to break Gridley's masterful eye hold upon him.

"I thought you would," said the master mechanic without releasing him. "And you probably remember also that I took you out into the street and started you home."

"Yes," said Jidger, this time without hesitation.

"Well, keep on remembering it. You went home to Maggie, and she put you to bed. That is what you are to keep in mind."

Jidger had broken the curious eye grip at last, and again he said, "Why?"

Gridley looked his finger absently in the engineer's buttonhole.

"Because if you don't a man named Rufford says he shot a dead name in your. I heard him say it last night—overheard him, I should say; that's all."

The master mechanic passed on, going out by the great door which opened for the locomotive entering track. Jidger hung upon his heels for a moment and then went slowly out through the tool room and across the yard tracks to the Crow's Nest.

He found McCloskey in his office above stairs, moping and grumbling over the stringboard of the new time table.

"Well?" growled the trainmaster when he saw who had opened and closed the door. "Come back to tell me you've sworn off? That won't go down with Mr. Lidgerwood. When he fires he means it."

"You will tell I ask you for my job back again, won't you, Jim McCloskey?" said the disgraced one hotly.

"I ain't asked it yet, and what's more, I ain't asked."

"Sure you are," muttered McCloskey. "You'd be better tutored with a drink or two in you. What's doing?"

"That's what I came over here to find out," said Jidger steadily.

ITCHING SKIN QUICKLY COOLED

Hot weather means skin trouble for many people, but now you can stop the itch instantly.

Just a few drops of the cooling and healing winter green lotion and the itch is gone—not in half an hour—not in ten minutes—but in five seconds.

This simple wash is known as Dr. D. D. Prescription for Eczema, and usually sells for $1.00 a bottle, but now by special arrangement you can get that size bottle for 25 cents. This will be enough to show you why we always recommend Dr. D. D. for all skin troubles. Dr. D. D. gives instant relief.

"What is the boss going to do about this thump with Bart Rufford?"

The trainmaster shrugged.

"You've got just as many guesses as anybody, John. What you can bet on is that he will do something different."

Jidger had slouched to the window. When he spoke it was without turning his head.

"I heard uptown that Bart has posted his doll—Mr. Lidgerwood shoots him on sight or he shoots Mr. Lidgerwood on sight. You can figure that out, can't you?"

"Not knowing Mr. Lidgerwood much better than you do, John, I'm not sure that I can."

"Well, it's easy. Bart'll walk up to the boss in broad daylight, drop him

SAVE YOUR HAIR

While You Have Hair to Save, Use Newbro's Herpicide

Every woman who is obliged to wear false hair or wig, a toupee, feels that it is a misfortune. What makes the burden so doubly hard to bear is the knowledge that the loss of natural hair could, in most instances, have been easily avoided.

The arch enemy of good hair is the dandruff germ. This is now a well established scientific fact. There is one remedy on the market which, used regularly, will kill the germ and keep out every trace of dandruff.

This remedy is Newbro's Herpicide long known as the Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer. By keeping the scalp clean, Herpicide not only prevents the hair from falling out but allows it to grow as nature intended. Begin in time and its use persisted in, this valuable remedy insures a new healthy head of hair.

Herpicide imparts a life and luster to dull, dead, brittle hair making it light, fluffy and beautiful.

Don't wait. Begin now to save your hair.

Herpicide is sold and guaranteed in one dollar size bottles by all druggists. Applications may be procured at the better barber shops and hair dressers.

A nice sample will be sent to anyone upon receipt of 10c in postage or silver. Address The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

HONEST MEDICINES VERSUS FAKES.

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the Pure Food and Drugs law in its relation to Prepared Medicines, does not refer to standard medicines as Foley's Kidney and Bladder Pills, but to the fact that many of the so-called medicines are really quack remedies, and are sold under the name of medicines.

The fact is that many of the so-called medicines are really quack remedies, and are sold under the name of medicines.

An Impertinent Question.

"Your wife," impertinently asks a message cream advertisement, "is she as fair and fresh as the day you were married?" We are out of sympathy and accord with those who scoff at marital felicity in the first place; in the second place, the word-play is old and obvious. Besides, either answer might precipitate trouble.

Cheerfulness and Health.

Cheerfulness is the best promoter of health. Hoping and yearning for the heart give imperceptible strokes to those delicate fibers of which the vital parts are composed and wear out the machine—Culver.

Heed Not That Call.

It is a terrible error to suppose that because you relish "Wordsworth's solemn-thoughted lily, or Tennyson's enchanted reverie," therefore you have a call to run off to write bad verse at the lakes or the Isle of Wight. I beseech you not all to turn to authorship.—John Morley.

Stone in Bladder Removed Without Surgical Operation

In the spring of 1901, I was confined to my bed with kidney trouble and thought that I would never recover. I took a lot of medicine but did not realize any benefit from anything. I finally saw Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root advertisement and sent for a sample bottle and thought the sample bottle helped me, so I bought more of the medicine from my Druggist, and after using a few bottles discharged a very large stone from my bladder.

After passing this stone my health was very much improved and I have been able to continue my business without any serious sickness.
